I embraced challenges and sought opportunities to improve processes to ensure more effective planning, execution and delivery. By introducing data and metrics to identify where improvements are needed and measure success of those changes have opened an opportunity to expand my team, apply process and best practices across the organization and become a more strategic leader.

Embracing change and maintaining a proactive approach to new challenges and responsibilities. Adaptability, willingness to learn and a commitment to ongoing improvements are key factors in keeping work interesting, challenging and rewarding.

I'm surrounded by very smart, hard working and motivated people

Motivation

The people, the challenges and the opportunity keep me motivated. I'm surrounded by very smart, hard working and motivated people, who I collaborate with and learn from on a daily basis. Every challenge presents an opportunity for change, growth and evolution.

Failing

Don't be afraid to fail and fail fast. While disappointing, failure is a valuable teacher. It provides insights into areas where improvement is needed and often leads to personal growth and development when approached with a growth mindset.

Crucial for success

Delegation and strategic thinking and planning are some of the skills that I've had to learn through experiences at GOBankongRates. Accountability for someone else's responsibility is challenging and rewarding at the same time.
